CHEN
Chu-Li

Born in 1982 in Taichung, Taiwan, Chen Chu-Li is currently based in Taoyuan. She majored in textile design and visual communication design in college and then obtained a Master's degree in sequential design and illustration in 2006 from the University of Brighton in the UK. Some of the awards she has received include being named Student Illustrator of the Year at the V&A Illustration Awards, U.K. and receiving an Honorable Mention at the 3X3 Illustration Show, U.S.A. She also received a grant from the Ministry of Culture, Taiwan to participate in a residency at a printmaking studio in Spain.

Chen specializes in collaging, printmaking, and drawing. The images she creates deliver their intended messages and exude a warmth that comes from being created by hand. Chen's earlier works illustrated human behaviors and conditions and expressed the relationships between people in society through the narrative-driven images created. In recent years, she has transitioned into art that's more abstract and purer. With messages and symbols removed, she works with pure and non-purpose-driven shapes, colors, lines, and spaces, seeking to construct what goes on in her inner state of mind.
